Greetings from Assemblyman Nader J. Sayegh

*NYSASSEMBLYMAN
NADER J. SAYEGH*

Dear Armour Villa Community,

Throughout the 2026 legislative session, I remained focused on delivering results for Yonkers, with priorities including education, public safety, healthcare, consumer protection, utility accountability, veterans, and local government.

This year's budget includes $56.3 million in additional support for Yonkers Public Schools, including $17.3 million for school infrastructure and Wi-Fi and $6.3 million for textbooks, laptops, and educational equipment. These investments help strengthen our schools while supporting classroom instruction and student services. I also remain committed to protecting Yonkers from unnecessary layoffs and excessive tax increases while fighting for resources for affordable housing, healthcare, and essential city services.

I advanced legislation to improve utility reliability and transparency, strengthen prescription drug safety, support refugees and veterans, and improve public safety. I also introduced measures specifically focused on Yonkers, including legislation addressing parking management and strengthening the role of city enforcement personnel.

I will continue working with residents, community leaders, and local organizations to strengthen our neighborhoods, support working families and seniors, and ensure Yonkers receives its fair share of state resources.

Please feel free to contact my office with any questions or concerns.

Letter from the President

Dear Armour Villa Neighbors,

I cannot believe we have made our way through the summer months and back to another school year. With fall around the corner, the Association has a couple of upcoming events that you should know about and mark on your calendars. On Thursday, September 17th, we will hold our annual membership meeting virtually at 8:00pm. The Board will provide an update from the past year on a variety of topics. We will share more information on how to join the meeting in the week or two prior.

In addition, we are already planning for our annual holiday celebration. This year the event will be held at the same location as the past two years, and will include a visit from Santa and hot chocolate (hopefully cookies too!). The date will be one of the first two Sundays in December (the 6th or 13th). So stay tuned!

One other update we want to provide is that drainage construction is finally starting along Cross Street, Wiltshire Place, and Perry Place. You may recall the city received over $1M towards the project when Assembly Speaker Carl Heastie visited the neighborhood in 2023. The money has worked its way through the grant and bidding processes, and the contractor has broken ground. As of sending to print, materials have been delivered to the neighborhood and construction started on the Cross Street portion of the project, which includes new catch basins and curbs. Over the upcoming months, construction will begin on Perry Place and Wiltshire Place. The duration of the project is expected to take about 6 months. Hopefully we can provide a more comprehensive update in the November / December issue. This is a long-awaited project for many of our residents who continue to experience flooding in their basements, garages, and yards year after year. Hopefully this project will provide relief to some of our most heavily impacted neighbors.

As we approach our annual membership meeting in September, this is a great time to get more involved in the Association. We have open Board seats, as well as volunteer opportunities. Please reach out to any of the current Board Members, or email us at armourvillainfo@gmail.com if you are interested.

Warm regards,

Chris Kaufman

What Makes Living in the Bronxville PO/Yonkers Desirable?

If you ask a Westchester resident where the smartest place in the county to buy is, don't be surprised if the answer is the Bronxville PO section of Yonkers. The PO contains the neighborhoods of Cedar Knolls, Armour Villa, Lawrence Park West, and Longvale. All of these areas have a Bronxville mailing address but all municipal services are from the city of Yonkers which offers some important benefits.

The Best of Both Worlds

Buyers in the Bronxville PO get the streetscapes and easy access to the Village's shops and restaurants they want, while paying Yonkers property taxes, which are far lower than those inside the Village. That alone changes the affordability picture for homes in the PO.

Commuting Simplicity

The Bronxville Metro-North station sits just minutes away, with Harlem Line trains reaching Grand Central Terminal in roughly 35 minutes and departing every half hour during the weekday rush. Drivers can easily access the Bronx River Parkway, Cross County Parkway, Hutchinson Parkway as well as the Deegan (NYS Thruway), putting Midtown Manhattan about 30 to 40 minutes away.

Historic Homes and Established Neighborhoods

Most homes here were built in the 1920s and 1930s. The area boasts beautiful Tudors, Colonials and Victorians on tree-lined streets with mature landscaping.

- Armour Villa has an eclectic array of home styles that add to the charm of the neighborhood including some late 19th century beauties
- Cedar Knolls (a designated historic district) offers around 140 homes
- Lawrence Park West is best known for large houses and lawns
- Sarah Lawrence College sits in the middle of Lawrence Park West
- There are many co-ops that give buyers a more affordable entry level and down-sizers a logical place to land

A Market That Holds Its Value

The Bronxville PO's median sale price for a single-family home in 2025 was $1,200,000 and they have stayed stable into 2026. Inventory remains tight (2025 saw 41 single-family sales), and the majority of prices range from $850,000 to $1.5 million. The median price for Village homes in 2025 was $3,000,000.

Bronxville PO—a more affordable option close to Bronxville.

UPDATE ON THE PONDFIELD ROAD WEST BRIDGE REPLACEMENT:

from the Westchester County Department of Public Works and Transportation

By Bridget Gibbons

The objective of this project is the full replacement of the Pondfield Road West Bridge. While the bridge will be fully replaced, special attention was taken to balance industry standards, historic preservation, and environmental conservation.

The historic stones from the “old bridge” will be reused in the final construction of the “new bridge.” Any trees taken down during the project will be replaced at a 2:1 ratio, taking care to maintain the aesthetic vision of the Bronx River Reservation. Additionally, dead and dying trees will be cleaned up, as well as invasive species within the project area.

A temporary pedestrian bridge will be installed just south of the bridge for the duration of the project to limit impacts to the walking public.

Access to the Bronx River Parkway Path will be modified, but will remain open.

The project will be completed in stages to allow traffic use of the bridge during construction. The biggest impact to traffic will be during stage 1, when West Bound traffic will be detoured to the Palmer Ave bridge. East Bound traffic was prioritized during this stage to allow traffic continued access to New York-Presbyterian Westchester Hospital during this stage.

All subsequent stages will allow for two-way traffic on the bridge.

The bridge construction is expected to start in Spring of 2027 is expected to take 16-18 months to complete.

Any questions, contact AVNA Board Member Bridget Gibbons, KBridgetGibbons@gmail.com

Cut the pumpkin open together and discover its parts—the stem, skin, pulp, seeds, and flesh. You can even save the seeds to roast or plant, introducing children to the life cycle of a pumpkin and how plants grow.

Build Fine Motor Skills Through Everyday Activities:

Young children strengthen the muscles needed for writing through hands-on activities long before they ever hold a pencil correctly.

Simple activities at home can make a big difference:

- Tear paper for collages.
- Practice cutting with child-safe scissors.
- Color, paint, or glue together seasonal crafts.
- Help wash apples, scoop pumpkin seeds, or stir ingredients while cooking.

Growing Independence: Montessori Tips Families Can Use at Home

BY BRONXVILLE MONTESSORI SCHOOL

These everyday tasks develop coordination while giving children a sense of accomplishment.

RAISING VILLA KIDS

As the leaves begin to change and pumpkins appear on doorsteps, fall offers countless opportunities for young children to explore, learn, and develop independence.

In Montessori education, we believe that everyday experiences—whether visiting a pumpkin patch or helping pack tomorrow's lunch—can become meaningful lessons that nurture confidence, curiosity, and responsibility. Here are a few simple ways to bring Montessori learning into your home this season.

Turn Seasonal Adventures into Learning Experiences:

A trip to an apple orchard or pumpkin patch is much more than a fun family outing. Encourage your child to observe the changes that come with autumn by talking about the colors, textures, smells, and sounds around them. When you bring a pumpkin home, explore it together. Ask questions such as:

- What does the outside feel like?
- How heavy is it?
- What do you think is inside?

Create Consistency at Home:

Children thrive when they know what to expect. Consistent routines and clear expectations help create a sense of security and order, making it easier for children to develop self-discipline.

Whether it's a predictable bedtime routine, helping clean up after play, or following through with family expectations, consistency provides the structure children need to grow into capable, responsible individuals.

This fall, remember that learning doesn't only happen in the classroom. Every pumpkin picked, every jacket zipped independently, and every small responsibility completed is another step toward raising confident, curious, and independent learners.

Nature in Residence: The Birds of Armour Villa Part 2

By Kathleen Donaghy

One of the quiet joys of living in Armour Villa is that nature is never far away. Whether you're enjoying a morning walk, tending your garden, or simply looking out the window, you're likely to spot an impressive variety of birds that call our neighborhood home.

Each has its own distinct personality and surprising behaviors. The imposing wild turkey occasionally makes a stately appearance, strutting through as though it owns our streets. Perhaps it does, at least for the moment. While they spend most of their time on the ground, they can burst into flight at speeds of up to 50–55 mph over short distances. Higher in the branches, a bold flash of blue announces the blue jay, never shy about its presence or opinions. Blue jays can mimic the calls of other birds, especially hawks—possibly to scare other birds away from food or to warn their flock of a nearby predator. So if you hear a hawk in the distance, it just might be a blue jay putting on a performance.

On quieter perches, the gentle cooing of the mourning dove adds a calm, almost meditative tone to the day. When mourning doves take off, their wings make a sharp whistling sound as air rushes through their feathers. This can startle predators or warn other doves that danger is near. Closer to home, near feeders and hedges, smaller sparrows gather.

Clockwise from the top – Mourning dove, sparrow, gray catbird, and blue jay

The chipping sparrow, with its neat cap and quick movements, is a frequent visitor. Its constant chirping isn't just noise—it's a running social network of alerts, status updates, and coordination happening in real time. This contrasts with the more familiar house sparrow, a constant companion in our shared spaces. House sparrows are suburban survivors; they have adapted to humans over many years and can live on food scraps and grains, not just insects. In the underbrush, the crisp whistle of the white-throated sparrow offers a tune you almost recognize. Birders often describe it with little lyrics like: "Oh sweet Canada, Canada, Canada" or "Old Sam Peabody, Peabody, Peabody."

Then, from the shadows of shrubs, comes the curious gray catbird, named for its soft, cat-like call. Catbirds often mix their own notes with borrowed ones, as if composing in real time. So if you hear something that sounds like a bird, a cat, and a mash-up of other birds all at once, it might just be a catbird showing off.

Together, these creatures form a living tapestry—one that shifts daily, yet remains reassuringly constant. So next time you're out for a walk, pause for a moment. Look, listen, and you may find that Armour Villa has more neighbors than you realized.

La Hacienda Makes a Comeback

Family-Owned Yonkers Market Reopens After Devastating Break-In

By Yoko Uchida Wilson

For the family behind La Hacienda Meat and Grocery Market, the road back was not easy. After a devastating break-in left the beloved Yonkers business damaged and facing a major financial setback, the owners Richard and Tanyi made a promise: they would rebuild and return regardless of the hardships.

The burglary was a painful moment for a business built on years of hard work, family dedication, and community support. Mid-July, thieves smashed through the front glass doors, stole a safe, and forced open cash registers, leaving the owners to pick up the pieces.

"It's heartbreaking," owner Tanyi Arriaga said after the incident, describing the impact of watching years of work be disrupted in a matter of minutes. But the setback did not define La Hacienda.

A Family Dream Built From the Ground Up
Founded from a dream to bring authentic Latino products, fresh meats, groceries, and homemade meals to the Yonkers community, La Hacienda has grown into much more than a neighborhood market.

The family-owned business was built around a love of food, culture, and connection—creating a place where customers could find familiar flavors, quality ingredients, and a welcoming atmosphere.

Over the years, La Hacienda became a gathering place for the community. Customers came not only for groceries and prepared foods, but also for the personal relationships built inside the store.

Rebuilding After a Difficult Setback

The aftermath of the break-in brought uncertainty. The family had to assess the damage, repair the store, and figure out how quickly they could reopen.

“For a small business, a loss like this can have a major impact. Every dollar, every hour, and every person involved matters,” said Tanyi.

But with determination and support from the community, La Hacienda began the process of rebuilding.

A Community Rallies Behind La Hacienda

The reopening represents more than repaired doors and restored operations. It represents the strength of a family business that refused to let one difficult moment erase years of dedication.

Customers and neighbors rallied behind the market, showing the family that La Hacienda’s impact goes beyond what happens inside the store.

Small businesses are often built on relationships—and for La Hacienda, those relationships became a source of strength during one of its hardest moments.

A New Chapter Begins

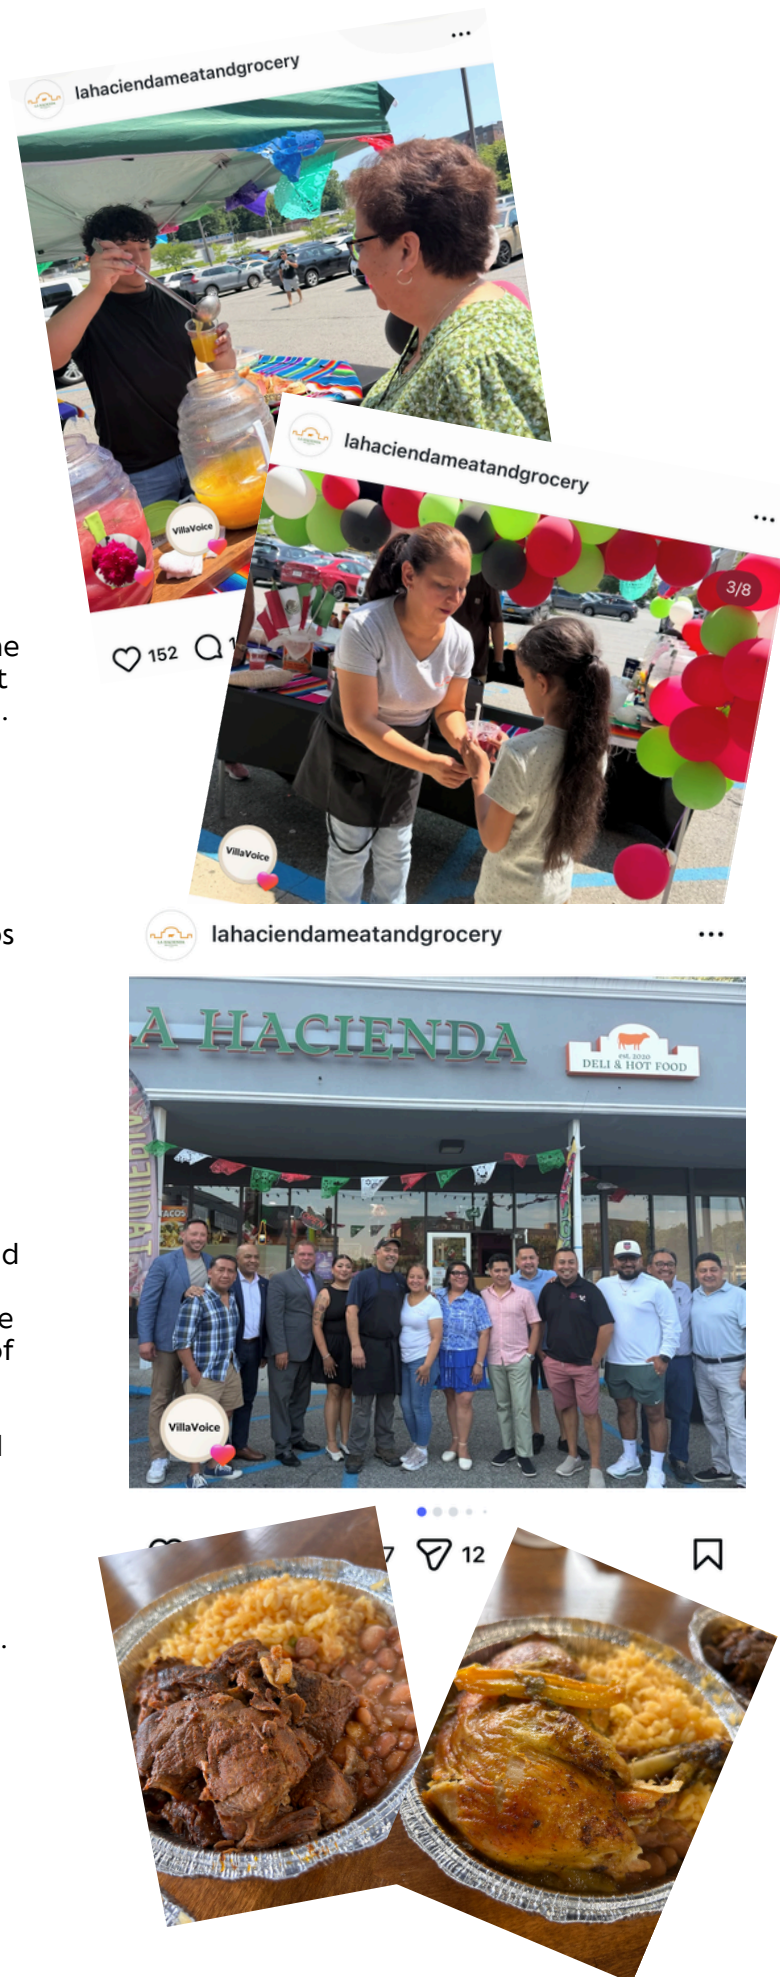

Today, La Hacienda is moving forward with a renewed sense of purpose.

The family’s comeback is a reminder that behind every small business is a story of sacrifice, passion, and perseverance. What customers see as a neighborhood store is the result of years of commitment and hard work.

After facing a challenge that could have forced them to close, La Hacienda is proving that resilience is at the heart of every family-owned business.

The doors are open once again, and the next chapter of La Hacienda’s story is just beginning.

The Yonkers Public Library has abundant resources available to local history researchers. At the Riverfront Library, there is a Local History Room. Inside the room are books about Yonkers and Westchester history; maps; dissertations; high school yearbooks; Yonkers city directories; and microfilm of Yonkers newspapers. To make an appointment to visit the Local History Room, please contact the Reference Desk at the Riverfront Library.

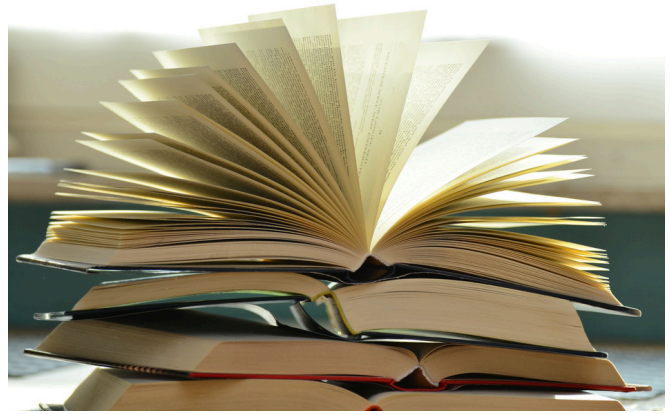

WAY BACK IN AV...

Through the Yonkers Public Library website, you can access the Yonkers News Archive. While at the library and browsing the Yonkers News Archive, you can browse the Yonkers Herald Statesman (1932-1998), Yonkers Statesman (1863-1932), Yonkers Herald (1891-1932), Yonkers Examiner (1857-1863), Yonkers Gazette (1868-1893) & Yonkers Daily Record (1883). This is 2,867,000 pages of newspapers that you can access. From a home computer you have less access to Yonkers newspapers, but you can still view Yonkers Statesman (1883-1932); The Yonkers Statesman (1857-1886); and The Yonkers Gazette (1868-1893).

The Yonkers Public Library digital archive has collections of historic photographs of branches of the Yonkers Public Library and from organizations in the city, such as the United States Volunteer Life Saving Corps and the Yonkers Police Historical Society. There are oral history collections including Yonkers Remembers (a project with Yonkers veterans) and an African American Oral History Collection. There are oral history interviews with World War II veterans including Frank Fortuna, who participated in Operation Overlord. Additionally, there are video recordings on the digital archive, such as video footage of author George Plimpton speaking at the Grinton I. Will Library.

In October 2024, YPL had their issues of the Yonkers Home News digitized with funding provided by METRO (a library non-profit organization). The Yonkers Home News was a newspaper that was published during World War II that provided Yonkers service members news about the city. This newspaper can be accessed on the Yonkers Public Library digital archive and will be available soon on the Digital Culture Metro website.

On the Local History webpage of the Yonkers Public Library, you will find more information about the mentioned resources and other local history databases. Librarians at YPL are happy to answer questions you have about these valuable resources.

Sue's Golden Years in Armour Villa

Living well, staying connected, and navigating life beyond 55.

By SUE WEISFELD

Fall is here and the end of year is around the corner, so maybe it's a good time to get organized. It's different when we are older. We have a lot of stuff, and we have a lot of paper. Keeping mental lists is fine, but it is good to set aside a little time to make some written records: things others need to know in case of an emergency or things you don't want to talk about but still want your family to know.

I found a nice inexpensive record book on Amazon called "Information My Family Needs to Know." You don't have to fill in every page, but it does give your children (or legal representative or whoever) the knowledge of your important information in the event of a sudden emergency. Some of the categories are insurance, bank accounts, property documents, vehicle information, passwords for online accounts, list of medications, and friends to be contacted.

You can make your own book, or get one like I did, and fill in some of the blanks. Then tell your family member or emergency contact where you put it. One friend told me he has one and keeps it in the refrigerator — a personal choice!

MONEY MATTERS:

I would like to tell you about a surprising way to save some money. At Walgreen's in Eastchester on White Plains Road, on the first Tuesday of each month, shoppers 55 and older can get 20% off eligible regular-priced merchandise — just let the cashier know you're there for "Seniors Day." You can get that discount online the entire first month's week by shopping on walgreens.com with the code SENIOR20 at checkout.

I am always surprised to see the range of items they stock, from socks to pet food to seasonal decor. Not everything is a bargain but many times shopping for food staples like common brands of cereal or soup is cheaper at Walgreen's than in the supermarket. So a regular-priced item cheaper than in another store, plus 20% off, is a good reason to visit on the first Tuesday of the month. And sometimes they do have good sales as well as post-season clearance items (I love my talking Dracula who asks if you want some candy).

More senior discounts in our area: Every Wednesday, DeCicco's Market, 777 White Plains Road, gives a 5% discount to seniors 62 and older on regular-priced items. This may not seem like much because this is not an inexpensive store, but they have wonderful fresh prepared cooked foods. We often get dinner to eat at home, which honestly is better than most restaurants. No tip and 5% discount makes that a great option when you don't want to cook (and leftovers the next day are pretty tasty!). A few months ago I met a neighbor there who I haven't seen for ten years. They do have an eat-in option. So, something to consider.

If you have a favorite store in which you often shop, ask about senior discounts. Often they don't advertise this benefit, but it exists. Some chains don't offer the discount but individual stores might, and AARP members get discounts in all kinds of places. If you are a member, check their website from time to time.

Speaking of AARP, Outback Steakhouse on Central Avenue offers a 10% discount on your entire party's check (not only for the senior diner) for food and non-alcoholic beverages (not tip or tax). They ask that you give them your AARP member number. So, if your bill is significant, this is a nice discount and it's good every time.

Please let me know if you are aware of other area shopping discounts so we can share with all in AV. And, as always, please send comments and suggestions to me at susanweisfeld@aol.com.

If you have some time at the end of the summer or early fall, the League of Women Voters of the Rivertowns will be having voter registration tables in various locations. If you'd like to volunteer to help, email info@lww-rivertowns.org in August or early September. Nothing is scheduled yet, but voting is so important and helping to get people registered is something we all can do.

Before closing, here is another warning about scams: this one is usually a pop-up on your computer telling you that you have a virus, or something is seriously wrong with your computer. Immediately delete that — you don't have any problems! No tech support company will send you a pop-up. This is a scam that frequently targets seniors. Eventually they will ask for access to your computer and also ask you for money to repair the computer. So, beware — we love our computers but cyberspace has made many scams possible.

REPORT

Dear Armour Villa,

I'm happy to report that as we are more than halfway through the year, Total First Precinct Part 1 Crime is down 16% year-to-date compared to 2025. Specifically, First Precinct violent crime is down 22% year-to-date and First Precinct property crime is down 15% year-to-date, compared to last year.

Also, First Precinct larcenies are down 10% year-to-date and First Precinct motor vehicle thefts are down an astounding 40% year-to-date. We at the First Precinct will continue to employ our various crime-fighting strategies to maintain this downward trend.

The Yonkers Police Department recently launched its new Facility Dog Program with the ceremonial swearing-in of its first two Facility Dogs, K9 Nilsen and K9 Gator. Unlike traditional patrol or detection dogs, Facility Dogs are specially trained to provide comfort and emotional support to victims of crime, children who have experienced trauma, officers and department personnel, and community members during times of crisis. They assist during victim and witness interviews, critical incidents, community outreach events, school visits, and officer wellness initiatives.

This program was made possible by the generous donation of both dogs by Puppies Behind Bars, a nationally recognized nonprofit that breeds, raises, and trains service dogs. Through partnerships with correctional facilities, incarcerated individuals spend more than a year raising and training these dogs under the supervision of Puppies Behind Bars Staff. Nilsen and Gator were trained at Green Haven Correctional Facility in Stormville, New York, which houses a stellar program that develops exceptional service dogs while providing incarcerated individuals with valuable vocational skills and an opportunity to give back.

I'd like to take the time to thank everyone who came out to the First Precinct National Night Out. It was great to see the community and the officers of the First Precinct getting together for a night of entertainment and fun and I look forward to seeing you all at next year's event. I'd also like to especially thank all the people and organizations who volunteered at the event or donated to the event; without you this event wouldn't be possible.

As always, I and all the First Precinct Officers want to thank the Armour Villa community for your continued support.

Sincerely,
Captain Brian Collins
